Presentation

The BBM V-Flex fund aims to reunite two performance drivers : a positive Alpha from stock-picking and an evolutionary Beta as a function of market dynamics.

Managed pursuant to our proprietary Business Models investment process, the BBM V-FLEX fund invest in Euro zone equities, predominantly in large and Mid Caps. Its equity exposure is flexibly managed within a 0%-100% range.

BBM V-Flex's equity exposure is actively managed as a function of market outlook and the investment team's convictions.

Allocation strategy relies on the 4 pillars of the MMS – Montpensier Market Scan – method:

- Economic Momentum
- Monetary policies dynamics
- Market valuation
- Market dynamics

The BBM V-FLEX fund is managed pursuant to our proprietary Business Models® investment process, integrating ESG criteria, that aims at identifying each and every picked company within its lifecycle. The related stocks are then ranked according to 4 segments:

- Business Model in Rapid Growth
- Business Model in Mature Growth
- Business Model Transition
- Business Model in Recovery

Finally, the portfolio construction targets the companies/stocks with the most upside potential (relatively to their Business Models segment).

Investment universe

BBM V-Flex is invested in Eurozone equities with a large and medium stocks predominance combined with a flexible allocation strategy of equity exposure.

Portfolio

The global economic context remains uncertain. The US economy is slowing down, affected by less dynamic momentum in the manufacturing sector, weighed down by doubts over the impact of the trade war with China. Growth in Europe is also sluggish, due to a lack of visibility over Brexit and the ongoing slowdown in the German manufacturing sector, which drove the national PMI manufacturing leading indicator to its lowest level since October 2012. China remains the key focus however and also the main source of hope. Economic momentum is still relatively lacklustre, although the strong budgetary and monetary stimulus measures implemented since October 2018 by the Chinese authorities should enable business activity to pick up, particularly if an ambitious trade deal between the US and China is struck. In this case, Europe would be one of the main beneficiaries of any uptick.

Rapid Growth Business Models (BM) returned strong performances during March, including SAP and Kering, which were both driven by hopes of a trade agreement between China and the US. In contrast, investors neglected Recovery BMs, such as BBVA in the banking sector, impacted by resurgent tensions in the Turkish market.

Transition BMs posted more mixed performances. DWS was boosted by several broker upgrades anticipating cost-cutting and a more favourable market context. Banks, including ABN Amro, were impacted by the yield curve flattening out.

Lastly, investor appetite increased for Mature Growth BMs. Sanofi benefitted from marketing approval for its Dupixent drug in the US and also as Praluent, another of the group's treatments, was approved in the European Union. Consumer stocks including Unilever and LVMH also delivered strong returns.
