Portfolio

Trends at the start of the year were diametrically opposed to the last months of 2018. Markets rallied sharply and midcaps outperformed. Investors' fears were appeased as the Fed adopted a more accommodating stance and the ongoing discussions between China and the US were deemed constructive.

Quadrator benefitted from the bullish trend, notably among value stocks in the market segments which had been oversold during 2018, including consumer discretionary (Hugo Boss, Maisons du Monde) and industrials (Mersen, ID Logistics). Early earnings releases demonstrated that certain stocks had been oversold during previous months and vindicated our decision to maintain our positions. We capitalised on the rally to liquidate our Plastic Omnium holding, as the crisis in the automotive sector appears to be deeper than expected. We also took profits in Carl Zeiss Meditec which now harbours more limited upside potential following an excellent performance.

The telecoms sector, which had served as a safe haven during the autumn, was logically weighed down as risk aversion receded. We sold our position in Tef Deutschland, disappointed by the lack of resurgent growth, and we increased our exposure to Drillisch which has greater momentum and we also believe that fears over a massive capex plan have been over exaggerated.

Investment approach

The objective of the fund is to achieve annualised capital appreciation in the long term through a risk adjusted outperformance against the benchmark. The stocks are picked on an active, fundamental, bottom up, discretionary and unconstrained approach. The recommended minimum investment horizon is five years.

Investment Universe

The fund will invest its assets in equity and equity related securities issued by companies that are headquartered in the Eurozone, or conduct the preponderant part of their activity in the Eurozone.
